Umpire—Mr. Wraight, of the Clipper B. B. C. of Westfield. Scorers-Holbrook and Gibbs.

a short time in looking over the Wine Cellar of Mr. Thomas Booth, of this village. His wines, of which he has a large quantity, are very choice, and as pure as grape juice can make. He has it in all stages, and of sufficient age to render it palatable to the professional wine drinker. In connection with his wine cellar he has an arrangement for keeping grapes, and those which we saw were as fresh and delicious af if just picked from the vines. His cellar is a model of neatness and convenience; and the various contrivances for handling and preserving his wines of the most approved styles. This is but the commencement of the wine business in Westfield. Mr. B. contemplates enlarging his cellar as the demands of his business require.

Those who wish a pure article of the best of wines, or a quantity of choice grapes for tisement.

Mr. B. will accept our thanks for a liberal package from his cellar.

We made a brief mention last week of the commendable effort to erect a large shop in this village for manufacturing Steam Engines. We find the subject is receiving very general attention on the part of our citizens It is hoped the works may be increased so as eventually to employ a thousand hands, or more. An establishment of this kind will be beneficial in the highest degree to the village and its prosperity. Its success will also, we are assured, lead to the erection of other manufacturing establishments. The interest our citizens and capitalists take in the subject will be sure to be remunerative. Manufacturing is the greatest aid a place can have. It affords employment to countless numbers, and draws capital to its locality. Villages and cities have importance by reason of the extent and variety of the manufacturing establishments, and their commercial advantages. Westfield has ad- rot, a little parsley chopped fine, salt to the vantages enjoyed by very few other places taste. Cut the potatoes in quarters, slice in Western New York. This of course does not include Government Bonds held by our citizens, which probably nearly equal, if they do not exceed the assessed value of the real and personal property. It will be seen from this that the wealth of the place is fully ade-

We may say in this connection by way of encouragement, that an effort, and probably a successful one, to put the Harbor at Barcelona in repair, and right up and render of some use the at present somewhat diapidated Government works, will be made to enable us to secure our lumber, coal, grain, iron, and other heavy articles, at a greatly reduced expense. This is no chimerical idea; and with the right kind of an effort, and a proper degree of enterprise on the part of our citizens, in the erection of man-nfacturing establishments, to render it nepessary, may be realized.

He wishes us to say that he will run a free 'Bus from and to the cars to his hotel; and carry passengers to any part of the village from the cars, or to the cars, for 15 cents each. He is bound to keep a firstelass house, and solicits the patronage of travelers. He has a Livery in connection with this house.

Rev. S. Heard, the Agent for the American Bible Society, in this County, is in the place, and will visit every family and supply all with Bibles and Testaments, at cost; The work is one that needs the encouragement of all, and the Agent we have no doubt will be cordially received and assisted in his labors in all reasonable ways. It is unnecessary to commend a work, in which all are so deeply interested. It furnishes its own commendation. The Agent will be unremitting in his labors.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. - We have received the Prospectus of this valuable and timehonored literary journal for 1868, which we shall publish as soon as the pressure upon our advertising columns will permit. In the meantime, we cannot forbear saying, that as a repository of the best literature of the day, it has no superior. Those of our It was our pleasure, on Monday, to spend readers who want a weekly periodical combining Cheapness, Utility and Worth, will find the "Living Age" just the thing for them. The best Stories, Reviews, Essays, Sketches, Poetry, &c , &c , are to be found in it. An eminent clergyman of Massachusetts says that in the formation of his mind and character, he owes as much to the "Living Age" as to all other means of education put together; and this is the testimony of thousands.

The "Living Age" is published every Saturday, giving fifty-two numbers and over three thousand double-column octavo pages of reading matter yearly. Sent to any address, free of postage, for one year, for Eight Dollars. Address Littell & Gay, 30 Bromfield St., Boston.
