Tagnday Evoning, July 27, 1860. The negroes of the South have had emacl pation thrust upon thom. However, before it came they were told by Mr. Lincoln in his characteristic way, that with their freedom they must "root hog or die."— They accopted what they tormed their "deliverance," but the consequences are looming up to view.—Lockport Union,

During the last years of the "conflict," the principal hindrance in the way of enlistmonts was the conviction that It was the Which man's war and the poor man's fight."

It cooled their patriotism and shock their confidence and bolief in a final triumph.— That conviction was well founded. - Roches.

From the above extracts, from the two Unions of yostorday, it will be seen that both the Lookport Union and the Rockester Union, domocratio organs, continuo to manifest their hostility both to the war for the suppression of the rebellion and to its results, one of which results is the emancipation of and the enfranchisement of the slaves of the Southern States, and another result, the disfranchisement for a season of the leading actors in the rebellion. The slaves are emanelpated and enfranchised, but the democratic politicians, remembering the broad and butter,-looks and garlicks moted out to them by their old masters-continue to murmur, to complain of and denounce thomen who delivered the nation from the Imponding ovils of the slave system, and to malign the great captain of the age, who fend our armies to victory. Those copperhands are fur more relentless and unreasonablo than the factions tribes of Isreal. The fattor, after their journey through the wilderness, consect their murmurings and kept the coverance formed on the other side of the foring streams through nexzles a quarter of an don, over which they passed after their onomics were conquered and their idels dostroyed. The copporhends continue to live In the past, to disregard covenants and conloft in Egypt, that they might be governed and fed by thoir old masters.

Genreus College Judgo Johnson, in the Seventh Judiolal District, has denied the motion to vacate the injunction upon the thom from removing that institution from Lima to Syraouso. The Judge makes this decision witness reference to the law authorcan be gottled.

The dog, the friend and companion of man in both civilized and savage life, has of latter times in this country received an undue share of public attention, not from any favoritism or affection, but from a vague sense of unoasiness and apprehension that he bears the absence of correct information as regards the nature of this disease (hydrophobia) in can be adduced in which any human crea ture has been subjected to the consequences which such bites and inoculations are said to produce.

Epilopsy is a common disease in dogs, and many are killed when foaming at the mouth and struggling in fits, as 'mail dogs.' Now, a mad dog nover has fits, nover avoids wator, never runs with his tail between his legs, unless pursued and frightened. Hydrophobia is of ancient date. It was known to medicine nearly ten centuries ago, and notwithstanding the strides made in sciwhich was established in 1807. May it be ence since its discovery, medical men have not fering as they do in some particulars, there are others on which the preponderance of weight of testimony of most authors is of entire accord. One of these is that canine madness was never known to originate in hot weather. Youatt, the celebrated Veterinary Surgeon of London, challenges one single instance of its being produced in a dog by a venrical sun. It is unknown as a disease in Sylnia the West Indies, South America and the East. Constantinople, that city of does of the Pennsylvania Hospital show that from 1752 to 1830, a period of seventy years, out of 28,105 admission to its wards of all kinds of diseases, there was but one of bydrophobia; whilst of diseases closely resemb ling it (mania a poto, tetanus and hysteria,) there were 320.

But there is another aspect in which we masont was given to the Irish Church bill.

The internal revenue receipts yesterday were ever $900,000.

There are two or three organs in the Republican party that are growing more or less ferocious upon I resident Grant. Mississippi Politics. New York, July 27. Herald's Washington despatches state that Judge Dent, with numbers of conservatives and Mississippi politicians, have gone to Long Branch to see the President, relative to the election in that State. The presence of General Ames at Long Branch with the President has created uncomfortable feelings in the minds of the conservative Mississippians. Judgo Sharkey and Dent say all they want the President to do is to instruct Gen. Ames to keep his hands off. What they fear is that with the aid of certain members of the Cabinet, Gen. Ames will get the inside track with Grant and give them some trouble. Success of Secretary Boutwell's Admin istention of the Finances.

Fenianism.

A public meeting of the Garryown circle of the Fenian brotherhood was held last night at their headquarters, Jefferson assemoly rooms, for the purpose of inducing Irishmen to join the organization. The speakers united in advising Irishmen not to be humbugged by the disestablishment of the Irish church which, however, they regarded as the first great triumph of the brotherhood. From what was said it appears the Fenians do not intend hasty or immediate action. When they go to Ireland next it will be not only with arms but with men to use them. It was also mentioned that during the late outbreak in Ireland a Fenian ship lay on the coast for twenty days loaded with arms and afterward returned to America. An armed Fenian body, called the Legion of St. Patrick, which has long had a secret existence, is now organizing more publicly,

South Royalston, Mass.

"In the spring of 1833 I was most severely afflicted with a hard, dry cough, with its usual accompaniments of night swears, completely prostrating my nervous system, and producing such a debilitated state of health that, after trying medicinal aid to repurpose, I had given up all hopes of ever recovering, as had also my friends. At this stage of matters I was prevaited upon through the influence of a neighbor to try Wistar's Balsam of wild Cherry, and, before using two bottles, the effect was almost magical. My cough entirely left me, the night sweats deserted me, hope once more clated my depressed spirits, and soon I had attained my wonted attength and vigor. Thus has this Balsam, as has often been remarked by persons conversant with the above facts, literally snatched me from the yawning grave. You are at liberty to use this for the benefit of the afflicted."
